Location

Train services from Stourbridge Junction station - reached within a 10 minute, quiet, rural drive - provide links to Birmingham and London as well as being central to the National Rail network. Similarly, the M5 is only three miles distant allowing quick access for drivers to the heart of the UK motorway network. Local buses call at the end of the road, suitable for access to local shopping and schools.

Good primary and secondary schools, in both Halesowen and Hagley, are within easy reach, and a bus service gives additional access to Birmingham's King Edward VI grammar schools. These schools are complemented by local Further Education facilities including a highly rated sixth form college. Older families will appreciate easy access to the Universities of Birmingham, Aston, Wolverhampton and Worcester at a time when greater numbers of students are opting to commute for study.

Situated on the very edge of the West Midlands, the property is on the doorstep of the lovely Clent Hills, the beautiful Worcestershire countryside and close to the border with Shropshire. The historical Hagley Hall and its Deer Park are also nearby.

Apart from a local convenience store, most routine shopping is available in Halesowen, a few minutes away by a bus service (8 buses/hour). For more substantial shopping the Merry Hill Centre offers in excess of 200 shops, restaurants etc with plenty of free parking and is 15 minutes away from the property. The City Centre of Birmingham is but 9 miles distant.
