A much-loved five bedroom home dating from the 1920s, complete with three reception rooms, a wide plot and mature garden, ideally positioned in a sought-after Solihull setting close to parks, schools and excellent transport links. It offers wonderful potential for the next owner to create their forever home in a fantastic location.

3 BRUETON AVENUE

This delightful five bedroom detached home has been a much-loved family residence for over fifty years. Built in the late 1920s, it sits on one of Solihull's prettiest tree-lined avenues close to the green open spaces of both Brueton and Malvern Parks.

The house itself combines period character with the scope to adapt and shape it further to modern living. Generous proportions flow through every room, offering space for both family life and entertaining. With three reception rooms, five bedrooms and a large west facing garden, it provides flexibility for growing families or those who want home working options.

Set back from the road with a large driveway and surrounded by mature planting, the house enjoys privacy while still being close to the town centre, schools and transport links. This is a home that balances heritage with practicality and space with comfort, offering the chance to make it your own for the next chapter.

Step through the painted blue front door into a welcoming porch and a wide hallway where a grandfather clock has long held pride of place. To the left, the dining room is framed by a bay window that fills the space with natural light, while to the right a large dual aspect lounge creates a warm and inviting setting with views across the mature garden. Sliding doors lead into a separate study, ideal for home working, with its own access to the garden. At the heart of the home, the breakfast kitchen is well-proportioned with ample space for cooking, dining and informal gatherings. Beyond the kitchen are useful additions: a traditional gardener's WC, a utility room and access to two garages – one a full tandem and the other a generous single, providing plenty of storage and workshop potential.

The first floor offers five bedrooms, four of which are generous doubles and one that has been adapted as a second office. The principal bedroom stands out with its dual aspect windows creating a bright, airy space and direct access to a large en suite bathroom. Each of the other bedrooms offers flexibility for family use, guests or hobbies.

The proportions of the rooms reflect the house's 1920s origins, giving a sense of space and comfort that is rare in more modern homes. With scope to refresh décor or layout, the upstairs provides a wonderful balance of practicality and potential.

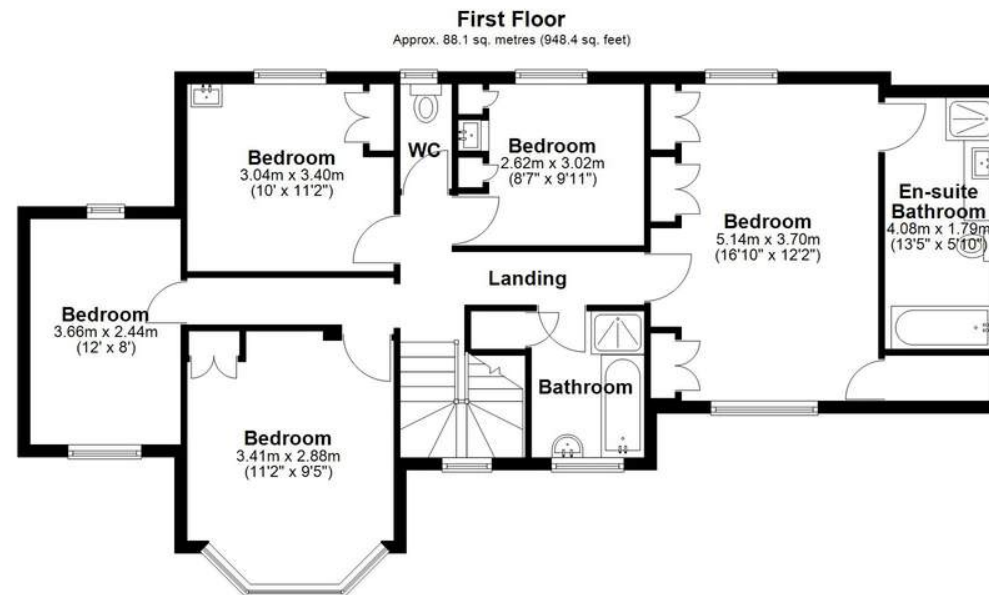

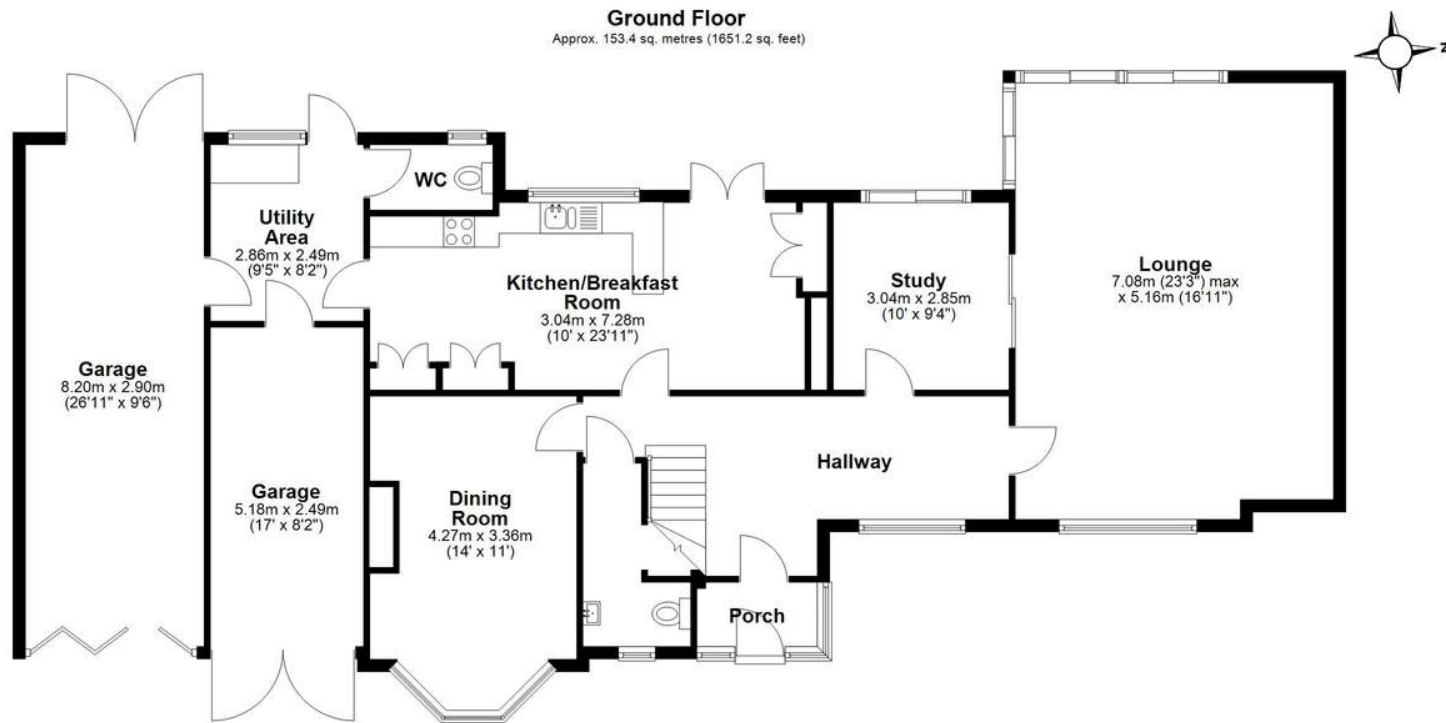

The front drive provides parking for several vehicles, complemented by the two garages that add both convenience and versatility. To the rear, the west facing garden is a real highlight. Mature planting frames a generous lawn, while a paved patio provides space for outdoor dining and gatherings. The garden has been well cared for over the years and now offers an inviting backdrop for family life or quiet enjoyment, with room to landscape further should you wish.
